

Contents

Translator's Note — IX

Introduction — 1

- 1 The horseshoe — 1
- 2 Corrupt fetishism: a nineteenth-century invention — 4
- 3 How to philosophise with a hammer — 7
- 4 The contradictions of modernity — 8
- 5 Historical development — 11
- 6 The status of theory — 14
- 7 Fetishism, ethnology, cultural studies — 16
- 8 A book is never alone — 19
- 9 Acknowledgements — 20

I Now That's Some Thing – An Introduction to the World of Things — 21

- 1 The Bartelby effect — 21
- 2 “The rebellion of things” — 25
- 3 “The Cares of a Family Man” — 29
- 4 “Where a thing ends and where it begins” — 33
- 5 Phenomenology of things — 37
- 5.1 Edmund Husserl — 37
- 5.2 Martin Heidegger — 42
- 6 Humans – things – collectives — 49
- 6.1 Bruno Latour's approach — 49
- 6.2 Who acts? — 52
- 6.3 Articulated things — 59
- 6.4 Fetish – factum – factish — 64
- 7 Lifeworld and material culture — 68
- 7.1 “That the things have us, and that it is not we who have the things” — 68
- 7.2 The evolution of functional objects? — 73
- 8 The order of things — 78
- 8.1 Function — 78
- 8.2 Meaning — 80
- 8.3 Aesthetics — 81
- 8.4 Abundance — 84
- 8.5 Dedifferentiation — 90
- 8.5.1 Last things — 91

- 8.5.2 Melancholy and asceticism — 94
- 8.5.3 Chaos – chora – rubbish — 96
- 9 On the disappearance of things — 105
- 9.1 “Pseudoreality Prevails” — 105
- 9.2 Everything disappears — 106
- 9.3 Around 1900: fragmentation and electricity — 109
- 9.4 Speed — 112
- 9.5 “Super-American city” — 114
- 9.6 Digital networks — 117

- II Fetishism in Religion and Ethnography — 121
- 1 Forbidden images and anti-idolatry — 121
- 1.1 Biblical traditions — 121
- 1.2 The Church Fathers — 127
- 1.3 Thomas Aquinas and Nicholas of Cusa — 130
- 2 Relics and statues: magical Christian images — 133
- 2.1 The relic’s spell — 133
- 2.2 The cult of images and effigies — 137
- 3 The ethnographic prehistory of fetishism — 140
- 4 The magical thingly quality of fetishes — 146
- 5 Concepts of fetishism in the Enlightenment and the early nineteenth century — 156
- 5.1 Charles de Brosses: writing-desk inventions — 156
- 5.2 Hermann Andreas Pistorius: Protestant reactions — 159
- 5.3 Philipp Christian Reinhard: embodiment and representation — 161
- 5.4 Christoph Meiners: disorder and classification — 162
- 5.5 Overview of the philosophers — 164
- 5.6 Auguste Comte: the primal positivity of fetishism — 167
- 6 On the path to ethnology — 170
- 6.1 Max Müller: the condemnation of fetishism — 170
- 6.2 Theodor Waitz: the confused worship of images — 173
- 6.3 Edward B. Tylor: animism and fetishism — 174
- 6.4 Adolf Bastian: colonialism and self-reflection — 176
- 6.5 Fritz Schultze: trifles of the primitive mind — 178
- 7 Magic and modernity — 182
- 7.1 Marcel Mauss: the theory of magic — 182
- 7.2 Aby Warburg: a theory of modernity in memory of its collapse — 187
- 8 Nail fetish pilgrimage: magic and politics — 196

- 9 Political idolatry — 200
- 9.1 Fetishes, idols, power — 200
- 9.2 The cult of Stalin und Stalinist architecture — 203
- 9.3 Stalin the idol — 208
- 9.4 Charismatic leadership — 212
- 9.5 The Palace of the Soviets — 216

- III Commodity Fetishism — 223
- 1 Introduction — 223
- 2 The exchange of gifts and sacred things (Marcel Mauss, Maurice Godelier) — 226
- 3 Inalienable things — 233
- 4 The discovery of commodity fetishism in Karl Marx — 241
- 4.1 Mystifications of criticism? — 241
- 4.2 The slow discovery of fetishism in Marx — 244
- 4.3 From Marx's early writings to Capital — 248
- 4.4 The fetishism of the commodity and its secret — 251
- 4.5 The fetishisation of fetishism in Marx — 256
- 4.6 Beyond Marx — 260
- 5 Reification and the culture industry — 262
- 6 Consumer culture and fetishism — 270
- 7 Inalienable things: collections, museums, memory — 279

- IV Fetishism, Sexuality and Psychoanalysis — 296
- 1 Sexology and its mythical fathers — 296
- 2 Alfred Binet: the discovery — 302
- 3 Richard Krafft-Ebing: collections of fetishists — 306
- 4 Excursus on the rhetorical form of fetishism — 309
- 5 Sigmund Freud: winding paths to fetishism — 313
- 6 Fetishism as metapsychological concept — 322
- 7 Wilhelm Stekel: theatricality and religion — 326
- 8 After Freud: the differentiation of fetishism — 333
- 8.1 Melanie Klein: presymbolic origins — 334
- 8.2 Jacques Lacan and the phallus – with an excursus on primordial murder — 336
- 8.3 Joan Riviere: womanliness as masquerade — 346
- 8.4 Donald W. Winnicott and his followers — 348
- 8.5 M. Masud R. Khan: alienation as perversion — 354
- 8.6 Psychoanalysis of fetishism – fetishes of psychoanalysis — 356

VIII — Contents

- 9 Cultural developments and feminist discoveries — 364
- 9.1 The failures of psychoanalysis — 364
- 9.2 She has, she bears, she is the fetish – but whose? – Marcia lan — 366
- 9.3 Intellectual fetishes – fetishes of intellectualism — 368
- 9.4 Feminism and the criticism of fetishism — 370
- 9.5 Food fetishism — 373
- 9.6 Fashion and fetishism — 375
- 9.7 Film and fetishism — 380

Conclusion — 386

Bibliography — 390

Index — 424