

Contents

Introduction	Imitation and Commerce	1
I	The Occasional Self: Pope's Minor Verse	15
II	Civilized Reading: The Act of Judgment in An Essay on Criticism	47
III	The Aesthetics of Revision in The Rape of the Lock	75
IV	Virgilian Attitudes in Windsor-Forest	103
V	"The Visionary Maid": Tragic Passion and Redemptive Sympathy in "Eloisa to Abelard"	131
VI	Rereading Pope: Language and Vision in An Essay on Man	152
VII	Property, Character, and Money in the Moral Essays	179
VIII	The Muse of Pain: An Epistle to Dr. Arbuthnot and Satiric Reprisal	214
IX	Politics, Time, and Deformity: Epilogue to the Satires	241
X	The Kinship of Madness in The Dunciad	270
	Conclusion	The Poet as Man of Sense 296
	Notes	323
	Index	361

