Photonics & Lasers in Medicine was published from 2012 till 2016. It was the joint official journal of the German Society for Laser Medicine e.V. (DGLM) and the Swiss Laser Surgery Association (SALC). Photonics & Lasers in Medicine was devoted to publishing original research contributions from all fields of technical and scientific research and clinical applications of lasers and photonics in medicine. Each issue provided a report on a specific current topic and an overview of the latest related research and developments. Additionally, Photonics & Lasers in Medicine had a magazine section with short communications, discussions on key topics, reports on meetings and seminars, and the latest news from international laser research centers, companies and related societies.
