

CONTENTS

INTRODUCTION, by Donald C. McKay	ix
PREFACE	xiii
1. Argentina: Land and People	1
1. The Land	2
2. The People	4
3. The Culture	7
4. Social Classes	9
5. National Character	14
6. The Provinces	16
7. The South American United States?	19
Part I: Before Perón
2. Economic and Social Development	23
1. The Founding of Argentina	24
2. Independence and Colonial Survivals	28
3. The Emergence of Modern Argentina	30
4. Industrialization and Urbanization	33
5. Pathological Symptoms	38
3. Political Development	47
1. The Colonial Centuries	47
2. Independence and Tyranny	49
3. Liberalism, Laissez Faire, and Oligarchy	53
4. Radical Regime: Irigoyen	57
5. Army Coup, 1930	60
6. Conservative Restoration	62
4. Cultural Development	66
1. Diversification	66

2. Reorientation and Enlightenment	69
3. Towards Latin American Leadership	72
4. Generation of 1910: Nationalism and Nostalgia	76
5. Publishers' Boom	79
6. Achievements and Misgivings	81
5. Relations with the United States	84
1. Policy Trends and Conditioning Factors	85
2. Nineteenth-Century Beginnings	89
3. Two Schools of Thought	93
4. Irigoyen and World War I	98
5. The Interwar Years	101
6. Prudent Neutrality, 1939-1943	108

Part II: Under Perón

6. How Perón Came to Power	115
1. Young Perón	116
2. Preface to Politics	118
3. The 1943 Coup	121
4. Perón, Labor, and Social Revolution	124
5. Perón Moves Up	126
6. Hull Cracks Down	129
7. "Braden or Perón": First Phase	132
8. Descent to the Underworld — and Return	134
7. How Perón Consolidated His Power	139
1. Sources of Peronista Strength	140
2. "Braden or Perón": Second Phase	145
3. Purging the Supreme Court and the Universities	150
4. Peronizing the Constitution	153
5. Towards a Single Party under a Single Chief	155
6. The Captive Press: La Prensa	158
7. Trouble for Perón and Eva	161
8. Six More Years of Perón	163
9. Death and Transfiguration of Evita	166
10. Thermidorian Reaction from Within?	169
11. Descamisado Refrain	172

Contents

vii

8. How the Argentine Economy Fared, 1946–1953	175
1. Panorama	175
2. Economic Controls	177
3. Agriculture and Livestock	180
4. Industry and Mining	185
5. Transportation and Communications	191
6. Foreign Trade	195
7. Foreign Investments	200
8. Labor and Living Standards	204
9. How Perón Took a Third Position between Washington and Moscow	209
1. Old and New Policy Strands	209
2. Problems Facing the New President	212
3. Perón Sketches His Foreign Policy	216
4. Follow-up, 1947–1949	219
5. Rio Defense Pact	221
6. UN: Berlin, Spain, Havana	224
7. OAS: Bogotá	227
8. Spreading Peronismo	229
9. Korea: Argentine Crisis	232
10. Foreign Ministers' Meeting	236
11. Making Up with Washington	238
12. Aims of Third Position Opportunism	245

Part III: After Perón

10. The United States and the Problem of Argentina	246
1. Peronismo and the Modus Vivendi with Washington	246
2. The Radicals as Friends and Critics	249
3. In the Long Run	252

APPENDIX. Suggested Reading	254
-----------------------------	-----

INDEX	263
-------	-----

Maps

Population Density, Argentina, 1943	37
The Heart of Buenos Aires	135

