

Magazines

Social Dynamics

Volume I, number 1, 1975—

Edited by Drew Archibald and Michael Savage

Frequency:
twice annually

Subscription rates:
R5.00 to individuals, R7.50 to libraries

Publisher:
Social Dynamics, Department of Sociology, University of Cape Town, Rondebosch 7700, South Africa.

Published by the Faculty of Social Science of the University of Cape Town, this new journal is published "to provide a forum within South Africa for academic work in the social sciences that is relevant to the study of societies of Southern Africa". Articles in the first two numbers focus largely on aspects of race and ethnic relations in Southern Africa and include "Integration and Conflict in Multinational States" by Pierre van den Berghe, "The Social, Political and Economic Implications of Industrial Progress, with Particular Reference to the Position of the Coloured Population" by S.P. Cilliers, "Sociology and the Study of Race: contemporary perspectives for Southern Africa" by Marshall Murphree, and "Third Party Role in Ethnic Conflict" by Paul Hare. Articles are supplemented by notes on current research and book reviews.

Environ

Volume I, number 1, September 1975—

Edited by Bill Hill

Frequency:
not reported

Subscription rates:
Cedi 1.00 per issue

Publisher:
Faculty of Architecture, University of Science and Technology, Kumasi, Ghana.

This is a "New Series" of a publication which originally appeared as a student paper, and it is put together by both academic staff and students at Kumasi's Faculty of Architecture. The journal will, in addition to projecting the work of the Faculty, act as a forum for the dissemination and discussion of problems of the environment in all parts of Africa, from an interdisciplinary point of view. Some of the papers—many illustrated with plates, charts, and line drawings—in the first issue are: "Food Resources of the Zongo" (an area of migrant housing) by Jane Stanley, "Urban Mass Transportation in Ghana" by E.K.A. Tamakloe, and "Where Have all the Eccentrics Gone" by Bill Hill, which calls for a modern architecture for Ghana which is in harmony with the country's culture. Also included are short reports and reviews on current research.

Journal of the Nigerian Association of Health Engineering

Volume I, number 1, September 1975—

Edited by Hans A. von der Mosel

Frequency: quarterly

Subscription rates:
N1.80

Publisher:
Topad (Nigeria) Ltd., 34 Aje Street, POB 4942, Lagos, Nigeria.

The official publication of the recently founded Nigerian Association of Health Engineering. Some of the aims of this journal are "to promote, develop, and disseminate health engineering technology, to promote the principle of integrated design by improved collaboration between the professions, and to promote more efficient management of operation, maintenance and safety of hospital buildings and equipment". Among the papers in the initial issue are "Common Mistakes in Planning Intensive Care Units" by Hans von der Mosel and Osuade Oyediran, "Designing the In-Door Environment for Patient Care: a nurse's viewpoint" by Aderemi Ogunlana, and "Physical Environment and the Patient Engineering Consideration" by B.G. Oduntan. Also included are a report on Standards for a Cardiac Catheterization Laboratory, and a calendar of forthcoming professional meetings.