

Communications – The European Journal of Communication Research

Instructions for Authors

1. Submitting an article for publication

Communications invites submissions from a broad thematic field of communication research. Manuscripts should represent original work, should not be published elsewhere or in another language, and should not be submitted to other journals simultaneously.

Submissions should be written in English. Contributors whose native language is not English should have their manuscripts read by a native speaker before submission. Examples not in English must have aligned interlinear glosses and an idiomatic translation.

Submitting the main article

Manuscripts for consideration in Communications should be submitted via the online submission system to the Editor. Communications performs a double-blind reviewing process. Therefore, please prepare a complete manuscript of your article (main document) without title page, acknowledgments, and any running headers with author names in order to allow blinded review. Please remember to anonymise also citations, should this be necessary. Please be sure that title, abstract and keywords are included in your Main Document (word file).

Submitting the revised article

When submitting a revision of your manuscript, please upload three documents: 1) the anonymised version of the revised article; 2) a second version of the revised article with all author information added, including non-anonymised citations (please save this second version as a ZIP archive before you upload it) and 3) a document with your response to the reviewer's or editor's critique. This document should also be anonymised.

2. Formatting, style and formal requirements

In general, manuscripts should be prepared in accordance with the 5th edition of the Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association (2001). Manuscripts that do not conform to the APA guidelines will be sent back to the authors without review.

Citations and references

Citations should conform to the following example:
(Smart, 1974, p. 22)

References should conform to the following examples:

Periodical

Gabennesh, H. (1972). Authoritarianism as world view. American Journal of Sociology, 77(5), 857-875.

Nonperiodical

Gifi, A. (1991). Nonlinear multivariate analysis. Chichester: Wiley.

Part of a nonperiodical

Gray, A. (1996). Behind closed doors: Video recorders in the home. In H. Baehr, & A. Gray (Eds.), Turning it on: A reader in women and media (pp. 118-129). London: Arnold.

Extent

The length of the manuscript should not exceed 8000 words (articles) and 4000 words (Research in brief).

Formatting

The manuscript should be double-spaced (including notes and references) with standard margins. All pages should be numbered serially. Non-English words should appear in italics. Please do not use boldface type for emphasis. Use double quotation marks only, except for translations, where single quotation marks should be used.

Formal requirements

Accepted formats for submission are: doc, odt, pdf, and latex.

In order to be considered, submissions should contain the following documents with the described content:

- Main document: abstract of 100-150 words; keywords; anonymised article.
- Second document: names, affiliations and contact information for all authors.

Please note that figures and diagrams must be reproducible originals and should be clearly numbered and referenced in the main document and their approximate position should be indicated. Image files should be uploaded separately (you will be guided through all steps of the uploading process in the system). Notes should be kept to an absolute minimum, be brief and contain no diagrams or tables.

3. Peer review

Manuscripts received will first be screened by one of the Editors or Co-Editors to ensure thematic adequacy and sufficient quality. If a manuscript is considered appropriate for review, it will be sent out to a minimum of two reviewers. The review process is mutually anonymous: Reviewers are not disclosed to authors, and authors are not disclosed to reviewers.

4. Proofs

After final acceptance, authors will receive PDF proofs for correction, which must be returned by dates given in the production schedule.

5. Offprints

Upon publication, authors will receive electronic offprints (in PDF format) of their contribution. Guest editors of special issues will receive complimentary print copies of the issue.
