Economics: Article Processing Charges

In order to sustain the production of our fully-refereed open access journal, each article accepted for publication in Economics is subject to an Article Processing Charge. The standard APC amounts to €1000 (further fee reductions are available – please see below).

This fee is used to cover the costs of the professional typesetting and copyediting, as well as online hosting, long-term preservation, distribution to libraries and content aggregators worldwide, and extensive promotion to potential readers.

Information regarding payment of these charges will be provided following acceptance for publication. There are no submission charges – Article Processing Charges apply after the final acceptance of a manuscript.

Editors and reviewers are not involved in the author payment process and do not discuss charges with authors. The ability to pay does not influence whether or not a manuscript is accepted for publication.

Discounts and Waiver Policy

Authors are encouraged to apply for a waiver or a discount. All inquiries concerning Article Processing Charges should be addressed before or immediately after submission of a paper to the Managing Editor, Mr. Konrad Sarzyński, at the email address economics@degruyter.com.

If the submitting author is affiliated with an organization that is listed as an Institutional Member or which entered an agreement with De Gruyter, the author may be eligible for a reduced expense.

Moreover, the authors who work for institutions in developing countries (countries classified by the World Bank as low-income and lower-middle-income economies) may apply for a waiver. We offer additional discounts listed on this page.

Authors who do not fulfill these criteria but have no funding for the submitted research can also request a waiver or a discount during the submission process.

Funding Opportunities

Authors who are looking for funds to support the payment of Article Processing Charges have a number of options to consider. For details, visit our website.
