Advanced Search: Using a search criterium from the drop-down menu.

The screenshot displays the EBR Online database search interface. On the left, a search criteria panel is shown with a yellow callout box stating "4 Available Search Criteria". The panel includes a dropdown menu for search criteria, with "Author" selected. Below the dropdown, there is a search input field containing "Author", a dropdown for the logical operator "And", and a "SEARCH" button. A yellow callout box points to the text "You are looking at 1-1 of 1 entries" at the top of the search results, indicating the number of entries found. The search results section shows the title "Dalai Lama" and the author "Whitton, Brady". A yellow callout box points to the text "Number of entries found" above the search results. The results section includes a "SAVE" button, a "LICENSED ACCESS" indicator, and an "Add comment" link. The interface also features pagination controls for "Items per page" (set to 10) and "Sort by" (set to Title).

Dalai Lama

Brady Whitton

"Dalai Lama" is a title given to the spiritual and temporal leaders of Tibet starting with the Third Dalai Lama, Sonam Gyatso (1543–1588), and including, posthumously, the two prior leaders and those following. Tibetan Buddhists believe each Dalai Lama is part of an unbroken chain of reincarnations of the bodhisattva, Avalokiteśvara. The current Dalai Lama, Tenzin Gyatso (b. 1935), is the fourteenth in the lineage.

traditional Christian scriptures" (Tenzin: 48). He also commented on the "striking stylistic similarities between the Christian and Buddhist scriptures" (Tenzin: 55). The Dalai Lama's willingness to engage Christian Scriptures reveals his tolerance and respect for non-Buddhist faiths and their texts, but with this openness he also stresses the importance of maintaining the uniqueness of the world's religions lest we try to reduce everything and then "have nothing left to show that is distinct about our specific traditions" (Tenzin: 73).

Delphi

Rainer Hirsch-Luipold, Barbara Hirsch

Situated north of the Corinthian gulf in mainland Greece in the middle of the steep rugged mountain side of Mt. Parnassus, this Phocian city with the famous oracle and sanctuary of Apollo is a place where myth and history meet like the two mythic eagles sent out by Zeus from Mt. Olympus in opposite

A Christian community arose in Delphi only a century after the demise of the cult of Apollo. It was probably a diocesan town from the 5th century on, but seems to have been abandoned in the 7th century.
