Contents

Introduction ................................................................. 1
Günther Grewendorf and Thomas Ede Zimmermann

Part I. Semantic and Pragmatic Properties of Sentence Types
Implicatures in Discourse ............................................. 11
Nicholas Asher
Permission and Choice .................................................. 43
Paul Portner
Promises and Threats with Conditionals and Disjunctions ....... 69
Robert van Rooij and Michael Franke

Part II. Sentence Types and Clausal Peripheries
Revisiting the CP of Clefts ............................................. 91
Adriana Belletti
Delimitation Effects and the Cartography of the Left Periphery .... 115
Luigi Rizzi
Sentence Types and the Japanese Right Periphery ............... 147
Mamoru Saito

Part III. Clausal Properties of Lexical Categories
On NPs and Clauses ...................................................... 179
Željko Bošković
Discerning Default Datives: Some Properties of the Dative Case
in German ................................................................. 247
Henk van Riemsdijk
How Phase-Based Interpretations Dictate the Typology
of Nominalizations ..................................................... 289
Leah Bauke and Tom Roeper
Scope and Verb Meanings ............................................. 321
Edwin Williams