Contents

Preface——VII
About the editors——IX
Introduction——XI
List of contributing authors——XIII
Acknowledgements——XVII

Part I: Information Technology for Patient Empowerment: 360° Perspectives

Ronen Rozenblum, Paula Miller, Disty Pearson and Ariane Marelli

1 Patient-centered healthcare, patient engagement and health information technology: the perfect storm——3
C. Martin Harris and Gene Lazuta

2 Placing patients at the center of patient-centered care: a healthcare provider system perspective of a powerful new technology-enabled “language”——23
David Lansky and Stephanie Glier

3 Using health IT to engage patients in choosing their doctors, health plans and treatments——39
Michael L. Millenson and Jane Sarasohn-Kahn

4 Old media to new in health: from information to interactivity——59
Asaf Bitton, Michael Poku and David W. Bates

5 Policy context and considerations for patient engagement with health information technology——75

Part II: Current and Future Information Technology Solutions for Patient Empowerment

Mary Jo Deering and Cynthia Baur

6 Patient portals can enable provider-patient collaboration and person-centered care——93
Mary McNamara

7 Data model for integrated patient portals——113
Roy Schoenberg
8 Telehealth: connecting patients with providers in the 21st century — 125

Yaorong Ge and J. Jeffrey Carr
9 Patient-controlled sharing of medical imaging data — 141

Mehnaz Adnan, Jim Warren and Hanna Suominen
10 Patient empowerment via technologies for patient-friendly personalized language — 153

Jeff Harwell, Christopher Pentoney and Gondy Leroy
11 Finding and understanding medical information online — 165

Yukari Schneider, Maria Adela Grando, Jihad S. Obeid and Wajeeh Bajwa
12 Electronic media for engaging patients in the research consent decision process — 179

Catalina Danis, Martha Jean (Marty) Minniti, Sasha Ballen, Marion Ball, Scott Cashon, Margaret Piscitelli, Marjorie Miller and Robert Farrell
13 Patient engagement at the point of care: technology as an enabler — 199

Maarten van der Heijden, Marina Velikova and Peter J.F. Lucas
14 Supporting active patient self-care — 227

Eyal Zimlichman
15 Using patient-reported outcomes to drive patient-centered care — 241

Index — 257