Requirements for manuscripts submitted to ‘NURSING IN THE 21st CENTURY’

THE JOURNAL’S CHARACTERISTICS

“Nursing in the 21st Century” publishes original, theoretical or casuistic reports regarding the theory and practice of nursing and related sciences. Moreover, reviews of books and PhD theses are also accepted for publication. Manuscripts submitted by Polish authors are published in the Polish language, whereas those sent in from abroad – in English.

In line with the recommendations of Index Copernicus, the journal reviews manuscripts formatted according to the Uniform Requirements for Manuscripts Submitted to Biomedical Journals: Writing and Editing for Biomedical Publication (Updated in February 2006) by the International Committee of Medical Journal Editors.

The journal is indexed by Index Copernicus and Polish Medical Bibliography, Pol-index, Google Scholar.

“Nursing in the 21st Century” is issued quarterly. Abstracts are available on-line on the publisher’s website http://www.piel21w.umlub.pl, with the Creative Commons License (CC-BY-NC-ND).

GENERAL INFORMATION

Ethical standards

Medical research involving human subjects has to be carried out in compliance with the principles set out in the Declaration of Helsinki, which is to be properly acknowledged in the description of research methodology. To conduct such research, the authors must hold a permission issued by a local Office for Human Research Protections (Ethics Commission).

Civil liability

The board of editors do their utmost to control the merits of the publications, however, it is the authors who are responsible for the contents of their articles. Neither the publisher nor the board of editors are responsible for the consequences of potential inconsistencies in the texts.

SPECIFIC DETAILS – MANUSCRIPT SUBMISSION

Submission of a manuscript for publication in ‘Nursing in the 21st Century’ is tantamount with the authors’ declaration that the text has not been published nor that it has been submitted for publication elsewhere. Likewise, it is assumed that all authors agree to publish the text and declare that they have had full access to the presented data. The authors take the responsibility for the data as well as for the accuracy of their analysis.

Manuscripts which have already been published in other sources may be admitted for issuing for reasons relevant to the readers. In such cases it should be accordingly acknowledged that the text is a reprint and the source should be indicated.

The articles sent to ‘Nursing in the 21st Century’ editing office are peer-reviewed twice anonymously.

The board of editors use an online platform (www.edytor.umlub.pl) for submitting new articles. The authors should submit the materials for publication through that platform.

Manuscripts should be sent for review in two printed copies (which will not be returned to the authors) together with a cover letter containing the consent of all the authors for publishing the results of the research.

The prerequisite for including the manuscript for publication is providing the Editors with the original copies (not scans) of completed and signed by all authors:
1. declaration on the contribution of individual authors in the preparation of the manuscript (1 copy),
2. publishing agreement (2 copies).

Scans of the documents and signatures shall not be accepted by the Editors.

The Declaration and Publishing Agreement are available on the Publisher website: http://www.piel21w.umlub.pl/regulamin/.

Publishing guidelines

1. Original papers, review papers and case reports are published in a bilingual version (in Polish and English). A full name of person or company responsible for translation into English should be given.
2. The length of original papers should not exceed 6 standard typed pages including an abstract in Polish and English. References do not count.
3. The length of review papers should not exceed 9 standard typed pages including an abstract in Polish and English. References do not count.
4. The length of case reports should not exceed 6 standard typed pages including an abstract in Polish and English. References do not count.
5. There are also published reviews of books, PhD dissertations as well as reports of congresses significant for nursing, conferences and seminars. The length of these reviews should not exceed the limit of 3 pages, including References.
6. The material should be a MS Word document, Times New Roman, size 12.
7. Articles should be written with a 1.5 cm leading, 2 cm margin on the left and a 3 cm margin on the right.
8. Suggestions for text to be highlighted should be marked in bold type.
9. The tables and figures should be marked in the text in bold type.
10. The first page should contain:
   • full title of paper in Polish and English,
   • abbreviated title of the paper in Polish and English,
   • full names of the author(s) and their affiliations (if the authors represent different institutions),
   • full official name of the institution(s) the paper is affiliated,
   • the mailing address, telephone number and e-mail address of one of the corresponding author. By providing these necessary details the author simultaneously agrees for their publication (if the author wishes so, the phone number will not be published),
   • keywords in compliance with the current Medical Subject Heading list (MeSH) – not more than five,
   • the name of the translator/translating company (if the paper

...
The second page should contain details of any possible conflict of interest, information about funding sources that supported the submitted work (grants, sponsors), acknowledgments of gratitude and, if applicable, the name of the congress at which the research has been presented or the consent of the patient for publication.

Abstract and keywords

The manuscript should come with an abstract both in Polish and English. The abstract of an original work should amount to 200 words and should contain four separate sections under the following headings: Aim, Material and Methods, Results, Conclusions/Summary. All the abbreviations used in the abstract should be explained. Abstracts of theoretical and casuistic studies should contain 200 words and include basic assumptions. Below the abstract there should be placed keywords in Polish and English in compliance with the current Medical Subject Headings (MeSH). If MeSH terms for recently introduced terms are not yet included in MeSH list, generally used terminology can be used. There should not be more than five keywords.

Structure

The work should be presented in the following separate sections: Introduction, Aim, Material and Methods (in the section describing the methods used in the study, there should appear consent of the Bioethics Committee), Results/Discussion, Conclusions/Summary, References, Tables, Figures.

The 'Methods' section should contain an explicit description of all the research methods used in the study to obtain the presented results. Please specify the name of statistical methods and software used to develop the results.

Tables

The description of Tables and the contents should be in Polish and English (separately). All abbreviations used in the Tables should be explained underneath. The descriptions and numbering of the Tables should be placed above the Tables (Arabic numerals) and formatted in black and white.

Figures

Figures should be described below the Figures and formatted in black and white. There should be a number given in Arabic numerals. All abbreviations should be explained under each figure.

Abbreviations and symbols

Only standard abbreviations and symbols can be used. Each abbreviation or symbol used for the first time in the text should be preceded by its full explanation which should also appear in the legend of each Table and Figure in which it appears.

References

References cited in the manuscript should be organized in the order of appearance in the text, tables and figures (if a source appears only in tables or figures, it should be ordered according to the first reference to the figure/table in the text). The number of cited sources should not exceed 20 in original articles, 40 in theoretical articles and 10 in casuistic studies. References should include only published sources.

Reference entries for articles published in journals should consist of: the surname of the author and the initial(s) of the first name(s) (in case of 4 authors and more, only the first three of them should be mentioned by name and the remaining ones are represented by ‘et al.’ in papers in English, or ‘i wsp.’ in Polish papers), title, the abbreviation of the journal title (according to the current list of journals indexed for Index Medicus, available, for example, at ftp://nlmpubs.nlm.nih.gov/online/journals/lijweb.pdf), year of publication, volume number and number of the first and last page, e.g.:

When making references to books, the following should be given: surname(s) of the authors, initial(s) of the first name(s), title, volume number (if applicable), publishing house, the place and year of publication; when citing collective publications, the name of the editor(s) should be given after the title of the book with the abbreviation ‘ed.’ (for Polish) or ‘ed.’ (for English) before the name; when making reference to a chapter of a book the following should be given: surname(s) of the authors, the title of the chapter, the title of the book after [w:] (Polish) or [in:] (English), the author(s)/editor(s) of the book, volume number, publishing house, place of publication, year, number of the first and last page of the chapter, e.g.

It is necessary to use punctuation strictly according to the above examples.

References to Internet sources are permitted only in case when there are no adequate published materials. Reference entries to them should contain the full website address and the date of accessing it.

Authors’ rights and obligations

If the authors do not make a proviso at the time of manuscript submission, the publisher acquires full copyrights to the published materials (including the right to publish them in print, digital form and on the Internet). Only abstracts can be published without the consent of the publisher. The corresponding author will obtain a complimentary copy of the journal. Authors are not paid for publishing in the journal. The manuscript having been accepted for publication, the author should administer a payment of 246 PLN (including VAT) to the following bank account:

42 1020 3147 0000 8002 0084 6204

with a note: Nursing in the 21st Century – payment author as a means of participating in the cost of publishing.

The payment is made upon receipt of invoice from the publishing house.

Annual subscription fee is 75,60 PLN paid to the above bank account with a note – Nursing in the 21st Century – subscription.