Contents

Series Foreword DONALD KAGAN AND FREDERICK KAGAN ix
Acknowledgments xiii

Introduction The Past as Prologue 1

PART I Formative Years, 1903–1941

1. Reform and Education, 1903–1928 7
2. Reform and Experience, 1929–1941 21

PART II Wartime Unified Command, 1941–1942

3. Beginnings of Combined and Joint Command,
   December 1941–January 1942 35
4. Unified European Theater Command, February–June 1942 47

PART III Wartime Unity of Command and Effort, 1942–1945

5. Unity in Theory: London, June–November 1942 63
7. Unity in Practice: Sicily and Italy, May–December 1943 94
9. The Lessons of Unity Vindicated: Normandy to the Elbe, June 1944–May 1945 122

Part IV Peacetime Unification, 1945–1950
11. Creation of the National Security State, July 1946–March 1950 159

Part V Peacetime Unity of Effort and Command, 1950–1952
12. The Great Debate, April 1950–March 1951 185
13. The European Command Test, February 1951–May 1952 201

Part VI Peacetime Unification and Unity of Effort and Command, 1952–1958
14. Executive Reform and the New Look: Strategic Strains on the Concept of Unified Command, 1953 221
15. The Strains Deepen: The President and the JCS, 1954–1956 241

Epilogue The Unified Command Legacy: Goldwater-Nichols and Beyond 307

Notes 327
Index 379