Contents

Preface to the paperback edition vii
Preface ix
A note on documentation and transliteration xiii
List of works xv
Chronology xix

ONE. WHY KAZANTZAKIS IS NOT A POLITICAL WRITER
Politics or metapolitics? The essential; the adventitious; continuity. Nationalism equals purposeless heroism. The kravýi: A metapolitical “right act.”

TWO. PHILOSOPHICAL STUDIES IN PARIS

THREE. DEVELOPMENT OF KAZANTZAKIS’S (META-)COMMUNISM
The Asia Minor disaster as the stimulus for Kazantzakis’s idiosyncratic communism. Vienna: Political yearnings versus Buddhism. Berlin: Bookish and other influences; educational reform. Askitiki.

FOUR. THE IRÁKLION INCIDENT AND THE ODYSSEY’S FIRST DRAFT

FIVE. RUSSIA
Symposium. Second trip to the Soviet Union; the Anayémisi debate; “Crucified Russia.” Italian Fascism. Egypt and Sinai. Odyssey; third trip to the Soviet Union; Panaít Istrati. Greece: The Alhambra speech and its consequences. Fourth trip to the Soviet Union; revision of Askitiki. The Roussakov affair; break with Istrati.

SIX. TODA-RABA AND THE WANING OF KAZANTZAKIS’S COMMUNISM
A novel of self-revelation. Sorting out Kazantzakis’s political allegiances after 1929; why he was never a communist. The attitude of Greek communists and others

v toward Kazantzakis. Aristotelianism versus existentialism; the middle ground.

SEVEN. AESTHETIC FREEDOM 185

The transitional age. The kravýí. The lógos. Heroic action transubstantiated.

EIGHT. ODYSSEY 191

Notes 241
References 287
Index 311