Encountering Poverty
Poverty, Interrupted

Editors

Ananya Roy, Luskin School of Public Affairs, University of California, Los Angeles
Clare Talwalker, International and Area Studies, University of California, Berkeley

Editorial Board

Vincanne Adams, Medical Anthropology, University of California, San Francisco
Alain de Janvry, Agricultural and Resource Economics, University of California, Berkeley
Victoria Lawson, Geography, University of Washington, Seattle
Bill Maurer, Anthropology, University of California, Irvine
Raka Ray, Sociology, University of California, Berkeley
Eric Sheppard, Geography, University of California, Los Angeles
Laura Tyson, Business Administration and Economics, University of California, Berkeley

Poverty, Interrupted serves as a platform for public scholarship on poverty, inequality, and poverty action. Launched at a historical moment of acute inequalities across and within the global North and global South, the series foregrounds research, analysis, and theory that interrupt mainstream frames of wealth and poverty. In doing so, it presents established and emerging scholars and activists with new pedagogies and practices of inhabiting and transforming an unequal world, while at the same time interrogating how poverty has emerged as the dominant analytic for reflecting on social differences.

1. The Self-Help Myth: How Philanthropy Fails to Alleviate Poverty, by Erica Kohl-Arenas

2. Encountering Poverty: Thinking and Acting in an Unequal World, by Ananya Roy, Genevieve Negrón-Gonzales, Kweku Opoku-Agyemang, and Clare Talwalker, with illustrations by Abby VanMuijen
Encountering Poverty

THINKING AND ACTING IN AN UNEQUAL WORLD

Ananya Roy,
Genevieve Negrón-Gonzales,
Kweku Opoku-Agyemang, and Clare Talwalker

With illustrations by Abby VanMuijen

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA PRESS
The publisher gratefully acknowledges the generous support of the Anne G. Lipow Endowment Fund for Social Justice and Human Rights of the University of California Press Foundation, which was established by Stephen M. Silberstein.