This book could not have been written without the generosity and patience of the staff at the University of California Press, especially Blake Edgar. I was greatly aided by several important wine professionals, outside of those who inhabit these pages. To Charles Sullivan, the California wine industry’s most treasured historian, I owe a great debt, as well as research librarian Axel Borg at the University of California, Davis. John Gay, Stan Hock, Leon Sobon, John Livingstone-Learmonth, John Buechsenstein, Deborah Golino, Tom Hill, Carole Meredith, Andrew Walker, and Darrell Corti were all careful readers and advisors, steering me straight when I got too far afield. I also want to thank the editorial staff of Wine & Spirits Magazine, especially Josh Greene, Tara Q. Thomas, Wolfgang Weber, and Luke Sykora, who supported me in the years it took to complete this book; I became a better writer in their company.
