Contents

LIST OF FIGURES ix
ACKNOWLEDGMENTS xi
A NOTE ON TEXTS, SOURCES, TRANSLATIONS, AND CONVENTIONS xv
PROLOGUE: RECOVERING THE LIPSIAN PARADIGM xix

Introduction: Justus Lipsius and the Doctrine of Constancy 3
Seneca, Tacitus, and the Moral Universe of Neostoicism 5
The Linguistic Universe of Neostoicism 11
The Politics of Neostoicism 16
Doctrine: The Method of Constancy 21
Neostoicism in France 26
Lipsius and English Humanism 31

Chapter 1 The Constant Courtier: Sir Walter Ralegh in Jacobean England 40
Ralegh and the vita activa 41
Ralegh on Seneca and Tacitus 48
Ralegh and Political Prudence 55
Ralegh’s Legacy 65

Chapter 2 Francis Bacon and the Advancement of Constancy 71
Bacon and the Crisis in Learning 72
Bacon and the Crisis in Humanism 75
The Advancement of Learning as Apologia for Tacitism 79
Contents

Bacon and the Stoics 87
Bacon on Fortune, Virtue, and Prudence 90
Bacon and the vita contemplativa 96

Chapter 3  The Constant Friend: Fulke Greville's Life after Sidney 102
Greville and the vita activa 106
Right Reason and Grevillean Constancy 113
Greville, Knowledge, and Prudence 120
Greville, Virtue, and Counsel 128
Greville, Authority, and Obedience 133

Chapter 4  A Neostoic Scout: Ben Jonson and the Poetics of Constancy 138
Life and Circle 139
Learning, Humanism, and Religion: Jonson's Road to Constancy 145
Politics and the Poetry of Constancy 155

Chapter 5  Joseph Hall and 'That Proud Inconstant Lipsius': The English Face of Neostoicism? 171
The Making of 'our English Seneca' 172
Competing Moral Paradigms: Hall versus Bacon 184
Hall and Theophrastus versus Tacitus 191
Hall, Obedience, and Authority 196

EPILOGUE: CONSTANCY IN THE ENGLISH REVOLUTION 206
NOTES 213
BIBLIOGRAPHY 295
INDEX 331