Contents

PREFACE

page v

ABBREVIATIONS AND BIBLIOGRAPHICAL CONVENTIONS

page xiii

I PHILOSOPHY AND HISTORY
THE NEED FOR A RAPPROCHEMENT

page 3

1 The Priority of History in Twentieth-Century Thought 3
2 History and the Science of Human Nature 5
3 Philosophy and the Rapprochement between Theory and Practice 7
4 History and the Problem of Historicism 9
5 Collingwood and his Critics 14
6 The Idea of Philosophy as a Scale of Forms:
   A New Interpretation of Collingwood’s Thought 26
7 The Aim and Plan of this Book 31

II THE RELATION BETWEEN PHILOSOPHY AND HISTORY IN COLLINGWOOD’S EARLY WRITINGS: 1916–1922

page 35

1 The Interdependence of Philosophy and History 35
2 The Simultaneity of Philosophy and History 38
3 The Relation between History and Science 43
4 Collingwood’s Classification of the Sciences 45
5 Idealism and the Doctrine of Universal Judgment 47
III SPECULUM MENTIS: PHILOSOPHY AND THE TRANSCENDENTAL STRUCTURE OF EXPERIENCE

Page 50

1. Transition from Religion and Philosophy to Speculum Mentis
2. Philosophy and the Phenomenology of Experience
3. The Ontological Structure of Consciousness and Experience
4. Towards a Re-interpretation of Collingwood's Thought

IV HISTORY AS IMPLICIT PHILOSOPHY

Page 76

1. The Phenomenology of Experience
2. History as the Assertion of Concrete Fact: The Categorical Singular Judgment
3. The Negation of History

V PHILOSOPHY AS A SCALE OF FORMS: DOGMATIC PHILOSOPHY

Page 123

1. The General Characteristics of Dogmatic Philosophy
2. Dogmatic Philosophy of History as a Scale of Forms

VI PHILOSOPHY AS ABSOLUTE KNOWLEDGE

Page 150

1. The Transcendental Principles of Phenomenology
2. The Theory of the Concrete Universal
3. The Logic of the Overlap of Classes
4. The Doctrine of Dialectical Necessity

VII PHILOSOPHY AS CATEGORICAL THINKING

Page 184

1. The Distinction between Categorical and Hypothetical Thinking
2. The History of the Conception of Philosophy as Categorical Thinking
3. Philosophy and the Ontological Argument
4. Categorical Thinking and Metaphysics
5. Categorical Thinking and the Rapprochement between Faith and Reason
6 Categorical Thinking and the Understanding of the Historical Past
7 Categorical Thinking and the Analysis of the Presuppositions of Experience

VIII PHILOSOPHY AS HISTORY

page 213
1 Categorical Thinking and the Problem of Universals
2 The Logic of Belief
3 The Theory of Metaphysics as a Science of Presuppositions
4 Metaphysics as the Science of Absolute Presuppositions
5 The Alleged Historicism of the Science of Absolute Presuppositions
6 The Essay as a Response to Logical Positivism
7 Metaphysics as a Dialectical History of Errors
8 The Theory of Error and the Conditions of Historicity
9 Truth and Historicity: The Presuppositions of Metaphysics
10 Metaphysics as Transcendental Analytics

IX HISTORY AND THE SCIENCE OF HUMAN NATURE

page 289
1 From Facts to Thoughts
2 The Standpoint of the Idea of History
3 History as Self-Knowledge of Mind
4 Historicity and Historical Relativism

X PHILOSOPHY AS SELF-KNOWLEDGE: THE RAPPROCHEMENT BETWEEN PHILOSOPHY AND HISTORY

page 311
1 Philosophy as Immanence-Transcendence
2 The Theory of the Mind as Pure Act
3 The Pure Act as the Transcendental Ground of Historicity
4 Summary and Recapitulation
5 The Drama of Absolute Mind