Contents

Introduction 1

1 The Warlord State and the Capitalist-Politician 16

2 The Prewar Nationalists’ Uncertain Developmental State 46

3 Building Eden outside the Firm with National Products and Urban Consumerism 65

4 Japanese Occupation and the “Economy of Things” 88

5 Building Eden inside the Firm 118

6 The Postwar Nationalists’ Unresponsive Developmental State 144

7 The People’s “New Democratic” Developmental State 177

8 Industrial Eden’s Legacy under Socialist Development 202

Conclusion 231

Glossary of Chinese and Japanese Characters and Names 237

Notes 239

Bibliography 297

Acknowledgments 319

Index 323
Industrial Eden
MAP 1  North China cities where the Song family lived or had business operations.